DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

2. Claims 2, 3, 8, and 14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Chu (6,334,713).

Chu discloses a seal assembly comprising a seal element 3 having an aperture. The aperture has grooves and lands 16 formed on the aperture to secure the seal element to a shaft. The grooves form serpentine passageways (see col. 5, lines 19-23, since lands are serpentine, grooves between them would be too). Element 2 compresses the seal element around the shaft.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 2, 3, and 8-14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Bowers (5,409,241) in view of Hawley (5,024,450) in view of Chu.

Bowers discloses a seal assembly comprising a seal element 55 with an aperture secured on an external portion of a shaft. The assembly comprises a rotator cup 38 in an aperture of a body block 12. The rotator cup engages an external surface of the seal element and is compressed there against by a plate 50 or 31. The plate 31 is secured to the block and engages the rotator cup. A passageway 29 extends from an exterior portion of the block to provide flushing means to an area around the seal element. Bowers does not disclose securing means (i.e. lands and grooves) in the aperture of the seal element. Hawley teaches a seal assembly comprising a seal element secured to a shaft. Hawley teaches plural lands 31 and grooves 32 in the aperture to sealing engage the shaft and firmly retain the sealing element in place. It would have been obvious for one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the seal element of Bowers with the lands and grooves taught by Hawley to ensure a fluid tight seal between the element and shaft.

Hawley does not disclose that the passages are serpentine. Chu teaches different shapes of lands and grooves used on a sealing member including a serpentine shape. Therefore, it would have been obvious for one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to make the passageways serpentine as such is an art equivalent shape as taught by Chu.

Response to Arguments

5. Applicant's arguments filed 2-15-05 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive and are moot in view of the new grounds for rejection.

Applicant's specification makes no mention of the serpentine shape. Thus, no criticality of such shape has been disclosed and can still be considered a design choice. However, making the passageways serpentine is taught to be an art equivalent shape by Chu.

Conclusion

6. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
